ABSTRACT

The objectives of this research is to develop a supplementary English writing materials using task based language teaching for tenth grade students of senior high school. The book of the study guide is a set of guidance to help the tenth grade senior high school students. The focus of this study deals with how to provide an appropriate task based supplementary writing materials for English teaching and learning process especially in writing skills.

The study was educational Research and Development (R & D). The procedure of the study was conducting the needs analysis, writing the course grid, developing the first draft of the supplementary writing materials using task based language teaching, trying out and evaluating the first draft of the supplementary writing materials using task based language teaching by the expert, revising the first draft of the supplementary writing materials using task based language teaching, writing the final draft of supplementary writing materials using task based language teaching. The instruments of the study were questionnaires and interview guidelines. The data from the interview was analyzed qualitatively and the data from the questionnaires were analyzed quantitatively through the descriptive statistics. The respondents of this research were the lecturer of the English Education Department and 10 students of tenth grade senior high school.

The result of the needs analysis showed that the students needed interesting additional writing materials. The product of this supplementary writing materials is entitled as Supplementary Writing Materials using Task Based Language Teaching which is accompanied with study guide book. The study guide book is completed with an answer key an writing self assessment. The supplementary English writing materials' book consists of three units. Each unit has 15 tasks and it consists of three stages. Those three stages are pre task activity, task cycle and language focus. The result of the book evaluation data shows that the supplementary writing materials using task based language teaching is categorized as a good book. It can be seen that the result of the expert judgement is 2.33 and the result of the student's try out is 2.34. As a result, the supplementary English writing materials using task based language teaching have been appropriate with the tenth grade senior high school students' needs.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Problem

Teaching English in senior high school is important for the students, because English grows to be an important requirement for college admissions, cracking job interview and other needs. In addition, the Indonesian Ministry of National Education states that English becomes one of the compulsory subjects that is taught in senior high school. In senior high school, teaching English focuses on four skills namely listening, speaking, reading, and writing. According to the new curriculum, which is called as Curriculum 2013, learning English is supported by the development of reading culture. Reading culture is actually related to writing culture, because writing is a product of the reading process. Therefore, in Curriculum 2013, writing skill is a crucial skill in English mastery, since it is integrated with reading skill.

In the tenth grade of senior high school, the students have to compose some writing formats such as academic writing, practical writing and personal writing. These kinds of writing formats are listed in the Permendikbud No.69 Tahun 2013 which states that the tenth grade students are supposed to master some writing works for example personal letter, advertisements, essay writing and etc.

In mastering the writing skill, there are many guidelines to be followed by the students. According to Oshima (1998) in Writing Academic English, there are three stages of writing process for example pre-writing, planning, and writing and revising drafts. These stages have to be followed to compose a good writing product. However, some of the English coursebooks do not provide those guidelines. In line, Bao Dat in Tomlinson (2008) states that some coursebooks in Indonesia have poor development of writing skills. He finds that the students are often asked to construct sentences or short paragraphs, but there is no scaffolding to guide them in completing the task. Furthermore, he states that many writing activities do not have clear social function that can be applied in the students' daily life. Thus, the students cannot improve their writing skill, because there is no suitable writing instruction as well as writing activity limitation in some English coursebooks.

Because of those reasons, the students need materials which are more appropriate for them. This is an essential issue to deal, since the students need the appropriate materials to support them learning English. Besides, the appropriate materials do not only contribute to the writing instructions and the students' performance, but also to increase the students' enthusiasm to learn by getting some interesting materials.

Dealing with the needs of appropriate materials, a supplementary materials besides the coursebook which provides practices and informations focusing on the specific writing part that may have more difficulty for the students is needed. The supplementary materials can achieve the teaching learning goals, because it answers the writing problems faced by the tenth grade students. In addition, supplementary materials has some advantages to enhance the students' language skill and communication skill, because it presents some interesting activities, some challenging tasks and breaks monotony of the writing activity.

In developing supplementary writing materials, the application of Task-Based Language Teaching (TBLT) is the most suitable method to use, because it has appropriate principles in teaching writing. According to Nunan (2004), the principles of Task-Based Language Teaching use a need-approach in content selection, use some authentic texts, focus on the target language, and use the students' personal experience to enhance the students' ability. The use of authentic texts in TBLT can encourage meaningful communication. Besides, this method is also a student-centered method in which the materials come from the students' real world activities. To ensure the effectiveness of TBLT development in writing materials, the outcome of TBLT is based on the assessment at the end of the language teaching. Therefore, TBLT is applicable for developing the writing materials, because the content of the learning materials generates its own language and creates an opportunity for the students' language acquisition.

Based on the explanations, creating supplementary writing materials are worth doing as an additional lesson besides the coursebook to enhance the students' writing ability. Therefore, this research also tries to help the teacher to develop supplementary writing materials using Task-Based Language Teaching that can be used in the teaching-learning process.

B. Identification of the Problem

From the observation in senior high school, several problems related to the writing skill are found. There are some problems which are related to the needs of developing the learning materials. However, these problems are eliminated and chosen in limitation of the problem and will be discussed in the next part of this research.

The first problem is that there is an inappropriate scope of writing materials. Curriculum 2013 has described the appropriate and standardized writing materials for tenth grade students, but some of the writing materials do not suitable with the students' needs based on the classroom observation. Thus, learning writing for tenth grade students does not enhance their writing ability, because the materials do not fit in with the target needs.

The second problem is dealing about the time limitation in the writing activity. Most of the teachers assume that the learning activity will spend more time in doing writing tasks, because they think that the students cannot create an idea spontaneously. Therefore, the English writing skill is rarely taught in the class.

The last problem is about the inadequate writing materials. In the English coursebook by Kementerian Pendidikan dan Kebudayaan, the book has provided four skills activities in every chapter of the coursebooks, however the development of the writing skill is not as good as other skills. Consequently, the students cannot increase their writing ability, since there is no plenty writing materials.

C. Limitation of The Problem

After analyzing what are identified in the identification of the problem, it can be concluded that there are some problems such as an inappropriate scope of writing materials, the limitation of time in writing activity and an inadequate writing materials. Thus, this research focuses on developing supplementary writing learning materials based on the Task-Based Language Teaching for the tenth grade students of senior high school.

D. Formulation of The Problem

Based on the previous discussions, the research problems can be formulated as follows:

1. What are the target needs in writing skill for the tenth grade students of senior high school?
2. What are the learning needs in writing skill for the tenth grade students of senior high school?
3. What are the good characteristics of English supplementary writing materials that suitable for the tenth grade students of senior high school?

E. Objectives of the Development

Based on the limitation of the problem above, the study has some objectives that cope the students and English materials. Those objectives are:

1. To describe the target needs of the writing materials of the tenth grade students of senior high school.

2. To describe the learning needs of the writing materials of the tenth grade students of senior high school.
3. To design the appropriate supplementary writing materials for the tenth grade students of senior high school.

F. Specification of The Product

The results of the products are in the form of :

1. Course Grid
2. Study Guide
3. Student Supplementary Coursebook

G. Significances of The Development

This research is expected to give some contributions to the English teaching and learning as follows:

1. For English teachers

This learning materials can be used as the reference to improve the creativity in developing the writing materials. The teachers can also use this materials in the learning process.

2. For the students

The results of the research hopefully will be useful for students in their English learning process.

3. For other researchers

The result of the research can be a reference for other researchers who want to develop writing materials based on Task-Based Language Teaching.

CHAPTER II

THEORETICAL REVIEW AND CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

A. Theoretical Review

1 Writing

a The Nature of English Writing

Writing is one of the important skills that is taught in language learning for senior high school. The definitions of writing are variously stated by some experts. According to Brown (2001:336), writing can be defined as a thinking process which means that in composing writing work, the work can be planned and given with an unlimited number of revisions before its release. In line with Brown, Harmer (2007:3) defines that spoken language is acquired naturally as a result of being exposed to it, whereas the ability to write has to be consciously learned. Therefore, the students cannot be mastered in writing by themselves but they have to learn how to write step by step.

In composing a good writing, a writer has to convey the meaning in written language by giving some explanations that have to be understood by the readers. Therefore, creating an understandable writing work is the purpose of learning writing skills. In order to make a good writing work, Mc Carthy (2000:25-26) explains two important aspects of creating a good piece of writing namely cohesion and coherence. Cohesion can be defined as the surface links between clauses and sentences of a text, while coherence is the feeling that the elements of a text are bound together. Those aspects determine the quality of a written product.

Writing skill is one of the most difficult skills that is taught in English learning especially for non-English speaking students, because writing can not be mastered naturally instead of taking some learning writing steps to be an expert writer based on Richards and Renandya (2002:303) who state that writing is the most difficult skill to be mastered by foreign students. Furthermore, Grenville (2001:iv) adds that writing becomes hard when the students should think about grabbing the first interesting sentence, blank about what to write, and realize that writing is to find interesting stuff to write. As a result, there are some problems of learning writing for the foreign students such as the students are lack of developing ideas and they do not know how to attract the reader by creating an interesting sentence in foreign language.

In improving the writing skill, the students cannot be composing a good writing product because in learning the writing skill, there are some steps that should be done. Harmer (2007:326) states that the writing processes are divided into three steps namely planning, drafting and editing. Based on theory the students use the characteristics of written language and the aspects of writing to help the students in composing a writing product easily. According to Brown,1994 (in Weigle:2002) the characteristics of written language are divided into seven points.

1. Permanence: oral language is transitory and must be processed in realtime, while written language is permanent and can be read and re-read as often as one likes.
2. Production time: writers generally have more time to plan, review, and revise their words before they are finalized, while speakers must plan, formulate and deliver their utterances within a few moments if they are to maintain a conversation.
3. Distance: Distance between the writer and the reader in both time and space ,which eliminates much of the shared context that is present between speaker and listener in ordinary face-to-face contact thus necessities greater explicitness on the part of the writer.
4. Orthography: Orthography which carries limited amount of information compared to the richness of devices available to speakers to enhance a message (e.g. stress, intonation, pitch, volume, pausing,etc).
5. Complexity: Complexity, written tends to have characteristics by longer clauses and more subordinators, while spoken language tends to have shorter clauses connected by coordinators, as well as more redundancy (e.g.repetition of nouns and verbs).
6. Formality: because of the social and cultural uses to which writing is ordinarily put, writing tends to be more formal than speaking.
7. Vocabulary: written texts tend to contain a wider variety of words, and more lower-frequency words, than oral texts.

In conclusion, writing is a productive skill that must be learnt and mastered by the English students that involve the processes of planning, drafting, and revising. Writing is means of communication that has to be understood in conveying the meaning and the students have to consider some writing aspects to compose a good writing product.

b The Subskills of Writing

In developing the writing skill, there are some skills of writing components that should be mastered by the students. In line, Brown (2004:221) states that there are a number of subskills of writing. He divides into microskills and macroskills components. Furthermore, Brown (2001: 342-343) mentions a list of micro and macroskills for written communication which focuses on both the form of language and the function of language.

Firstly, microskills are related to the letters and words in English writing system. The components of microskills are listed in the following:

1. producing graphemes and orthographic pattern of English
2. producing writing at an efficient rate of speed to suit the purpose
3. producing an acceptable core of words and using appropriate word order patterns
4. using acceptable grammatical systems such as tense, subject verb agreement and etc
5. expressing a particular meaning in different grammatical form
6. using cohesive devices in written discourse and using the rhetorical forms and conventions of written discourse.

Meanwhile, macroskills focus on some components. The components of macroskills are listed below:

1. using generic structure of written texts
2. achieving communicative purposes of written texts
3. producing coherent writings
4. developing ideas
5. differentiating literal meanings from implied meanings
6. using references based on contexts and applying writing strategies that include such as accurately in using prewriting devices
7. writing with fluency in the first drafts
8. using paraphrases and synonyms
9. soliciting peer and instructor feedback, and using feedback for revising and editing.

In conclusion, the components of micro and macroskills have to be introduced in every stage of writing composition. Those subskills of writing skill will develop the students' writing ability. By understanding the micro and macroskills, it can help the students in improving their writing skill.

c Teaching Writing in Senior High School

Teaching writing in senior high school highlights some relevant aspects. The aspects of teaching writing is important to decide which learning materials that are appropriate with the students's needs. The aspects of teaching writing in senior high school can be divided into two; the regulation of ministry of education and the age range of senior high school students.

Firstly, based on the five principles of teaching-learning process of Curriculum 2013, the English teaching of senior high school is aimed at making the students develop some competences; 1) learning takes place through the scientific method steps; 2) learning activities are students-centered; 3) learning activities do not only take place in the classroom; 4) the learning process utilizes ICT; 5) the learning process is supported with the development of reading culture.

Moreover, in the Curriculum 2013, the standard of competence and basic competence of English teaching and learning for each grade has been regulated. The curriculum becomes a guideline for the teachers in making decisions for teaching. Here is the table presenting the standard of competence and basic competence of writing skill for the tenth grade students of senior high school as shown in Table 2.1.

The table shows that, in the writing teaching and learning, the tenth grade students of senior high school are expected to achieve the competency of understanding the written language to access knowledge. There are three writing materials that should be mastered by the students. Those materials can be categorized into two namely practical writing and academic writing.

The next aspect of teaching writing in senior high school is the students' age range. In this aspect, the writing learning process should be appropriate with the age range of the students. The learning materials should be interesting for the tenth grade students which are 16-18 years old. In addition, Brown (2001:91) states that the age range of the students of senior high school is between twelve and eighteen which is also called as puberty.

In this stage, the teenager students are in the age of transition, confusion, growing, self-consciousness, and etc. Their intellectual maturation also develops which will be affected in their learning process. At the same time, there are many effort to stimulate the students in understanding the materials by providing the appropriate textbooks. Textbooks that provide enough content for the language use can engage the students in a meaningful learning way.

In summary, the teaching writing materials focus on some basic competences which are mentioned in the regulation of the ministry of the national education for the tenth grade of senior high school students. In developing writing materials, the contents must be interesting and suitable to the students' needs which are related to the technology usage. The use of technology will make the teaching writing more effective and the students will not feel bored.

2 Developing of English Materials

a Definition of Learning Materials

In the English instruction, learning material is one of the important components that can facilitate the teachers in the teaching and learning process. According to Allwright (1990), materials should teach students to learn. The materials should be the resource of ideas and activities for instruction or learning, and they should give teachers the guidelines for what they do in the classroom. He emphasizes that learning materials cannot be a flexible sources that can be used directly in the classroom. However, O'Neill (1990) proposes that materials may suitable for the students' needs, even the materials are not specifically designed for the students. He also states that learning materials help the teaching learning process because it can be adapted in the classroom activity.

Some of the English coursebooks show that the learning materials are not only in the forms of stories and list of questions but also pictures, videos, charts, and etc. As supported by Tomlinson (1998), he states that a learning materials can also be an authentic materials such as newspaper, food packages, photographs, task written on cards, and also the instruction that is given by the teacher. The authentic materials are needed in English instruction, because they can engage the students cognitively and affectively. It also provides a knowledge of the language in use that can help the students to understand the language.

Learning materials also emphasize the learning activity, beside giving the authentic text, because learning activities help the students in understanding the materials by doing an experiential approach (Kolb,1984). Providing some activities in learning materials can facilitate the students to participate in meaningful communication in which the students can achieve their communicative competence. By doing some activities, the students are expected to become more understand about the materials because the students engage the materials easily.

Therefore, learning materials have to provide concrete models of necessary classroom practice which act as curriculum models, and a guideline for the teacher in the teaching learning process. The learning materials are also related to the technology usage so that the materials will attract the students' interest and fit to the students' needs. Designing good learning materials will affect to the result of the language learning, because learning materials are one of the essential aspects in English instruction.

b Criteria of Good Materials

In developing learning materials, the content of the learning materials should be a good, because it will affect the teaching learning process. In considering the good materials for the students, the materials should be followed by some principles of designing the good materials. In line, Hutchinson and Waters (1987:107-108) identify some principles which will guide in designing the materials.

1. The materials provide a stimulus for learning because good materials do not teach the students but they encourage students to learn.
2. Materials help the teacher to organize the teaching-learning process, by providing a path through the complex mass of the language to be learnt. Good materials should provide a clear and coherent unit structure.
3. Materials embody a view of the nature of language and learning.
4. Materials reflect the nature of the learning task.
5. Materials can have a very useful function in broadening the basis of teacher training, by introducing teacher to new techniques.
6. The materials provide models of correct and appropriate language use.

These materials development guidelines will be an important part of designing a good learning materials, since it provides some important points which are related to compose the learning materials. Furthermore, Tomlinson (1998) identifies criteria of good materials to consider whether the materials are suitable for the students or not because deciding good materials are important in the teaching learning process. He identifies five criterias of good materials as follows:

1. Materials should achieve impact. Good materials should have impact for the students. The impact of materials can be noticed from the effects on the students, such as their attraction, intention, and interest in the materials.
2. Materials should help students to feel at ease. The materials that make the students be confidence are those which are not difficult to solve.
3. Materials should expose the students to language in authentic use. In order to make the students produce the authentic language use, the comprehensible and authentic input should be used.
4. Materials should provide the students with opportunities to use the target language to achieve communicative purposes. Good materials should facilitate the students in negotiating of meaning. So, the students are forced into using the target language.
5. Materials should not rely too much on controlled practice. The materials should be varied from the guided tasks, semi guided task, to production task. They should be arranged in balance.

In general, good criteria of learning materials are appropriate to the students' needs. The learning materials can be the learning sources and guidelines in classroom activity that help the students to acquire their English acquisition, and it can also help the teacher in providing some learning activities. Therefore, designing good learning materials is important, because it takes very important role in language classes.

c Materials Development

Developing good learning materials that are based on the students' needs are important. The aim of the learning materials is to drive the English instruction whether the students can achieve the learnings' goal or not. Materials development will affect the improvement of students' writing ability, because it is one of the crucial parts when the teacher cannot provide the materials that suitable with the target needs.

In the materials development, the materials should provide some sources of the learning inputs and the materials that help the students to improve their writing ability. The materials development consist of some authentic materials that are always read by the students. As supported by Tomlinson (1998), he suggests that materials development refers to anything which is done by writers, teachers, or students to provide sources of language inputs and to develop those sources to help language learning. In line with it, Tomlinson in Graves (2000) defines that materials development means creating, choosing or adapting, and organizing materials and activities so that the students can achieve the objectives that will help them reach the goals of the course.

d Supplementary Materials

In developing learning materials, additional materials are needed for the students besides the textbooks. Additional materials or supplementary materials refer to the materials that are taken from another source or any other materials that are designed for learning purposes (Mc Grath, 2002). The content of the supplementary materials are different from the textbooks. The content provides other sources that can be learned by the students.

The supplementary materials should be based on the students' needs that concern with the students' needs and based on the standard competence. It becomes a guideline for students' improvement in understanding specific materials or giving the students some activities to make the students be able to mastery in a specific skill. Supplementary materials can also be used as additional materials which are designed for the teachers when they cannot find a suitable materials in the textbooks.

Supplementary materials can also be defined as a modern way to learn English, because it brings an interesting materials that cannot be found in textbooks. It provides some activities which are based on the authentic materials or text that create a better learning environment. Furthermore, supplementary materials are not only useful for the students but also for the teacher. In line, Brown (1994) states that teachers need to supplement materials to increase motivation which is the key factor of learning. In addition, Reddy (2003) states that there are some advantages of supplementary materials which are listed below:

- a. Creativity
- b. Activities can excite students
- c. Breaks monotony of the class
- d. Encourages situational English
- e. Enhances language skills and communication skills
- f. Leads to group work
- g. Tasks can be challenging

As a result, supplementary materials are needed in teaching learning process as an additional lesson for the students, and it can make the teaching learning process more interesting. By developing the supplementary materials, the teaching learning process can engage the students in understanding the materials. The supplementary materials also help the teacher in providing the materials and facilitate the teacher to make an exciting classroom activity.

3 Task-Based Language Teaching

a Definition of Task-Based Language Teaching

In language teaching, there are many designs of learning materials approaches. One of the learning materials methods is by using Task-Based Language Teaching or Task-Based Instruction. Richards (2006) states that Task-Based Language Teaching (TBLT) is an approach which is based on communicative competence by using interactive tasks in language instruction. The core of developing materials by using Task-Based Instruction emphasizes the learning materials by using tasks as the primary unit that is used.

Task-Based Language Teaching can be applied for developing materials, because many experts have proposed many theories about TBLT. Those experts believe that the approach are fitted with the students' needs, because it emphasizes the students' needs and the authentic materials in order to develop the learning materials, activities, tasks and etc. In line, Nunan (2004) purposes six principles of Task-Based Language Teaching as follows:

- 1) A needs-based approach to content selection.
- 2) An emphasis on learning to communicate through interaction in the target language.
- 3) The introduction of authentic texts into the learning situation.
- 4) The provision of opportunities for students to focus not only on language but also on the learning process itself.
- 5) An enhancement of the students' own personal experiences as important contributing elements to classroom learning.
- 6) The linking of classroom language learning with language use outside the classroom.

Therefore, designing learning materials by using Task-Based Instruction is suitable for the students because the tasks are based on the target needs (Long, 1985:89). Developing the learning materials based on the students' needs makes the students can understand the materials easily. In addition, TBLT also focuses on how the students communicate in their daily life or outside the classroom in their learning materials by using an authentic text, because the students are expected to be able to communicate with other people outside the classroom.

b Definition of Task

Task-Based Language Teaching is related to designing many tasks as the core of learning materials. Tasks can be divided into two namely pedagogical tasks and real-world tasks. Real world tasks refer to tasks that reflect a real-world language use such as role play, while pedagogical tasks refer to tasks that are designed for classroom language teaching by using a specific types of language such as presentation (Richards,2006).

A task is a work plan to achieve an outcome that can be evaluated in terms of whether the correct or appropriate propositional content has been conveyed or not. In addition, Richards, et al (1986:289) purpose that a pedagogical task is an activity or action which is carried out as the result of processing or understanding language. In line, Ellis (2003) defines a pedagogical task as tasks that occur in the classroom. Based on Nunan (2004), he defines a pedagogical task as a piece of classroom work that involves students in comprehending, manipulating, producing, or interacting in the target language. A pedagogical task is a task that can be used in the classroom during the teaching learning process. The pedagogical task is not suitable to be used outside the classroom because the content is more rigid. There are actually many types of tasks. According to Willis (1996), he proposes six types of tasks as the basis for Task-Based Instruction as follows:

1. Listing tasks: the processes of explaining their ideas by brainstorming and fact-finding. For example, the students have to make up a list of things they would bring if they were going to school.
2. Sorting and ordering: the activity is doing by group work consists of two students and they have to sequence the tasks to set an information ordered and sorted according to specific criteria.
3. Comparing: this task involves comparing information of a similar nature but from the different sources by matching and finding similarities or different.
4. Problem-solving: analysing the situation of the problem, giving a reason, and making a decision to solve the problem.
5. Sharing personal experiences: these tasks encourage students to talk more freely about themselves and share their experiences with others
6. Creative tasks: a project that involves the students to work in group in order to do a free creative work.

c Task Grading and Sequences

The content of learning materials are usually graded in various ways. Decisions on what to teach first, what second and what last in the materials reflect the beliefs of the materials development or syllabus designer about grading, sequencing and integrating tasks. According to Richards (2001), gradation is concerned with the grouping and sequencing of teaching items in a syllabus.

Gradation will affect the order in which words, words' meanings, tenses, structures, topics, functions, and etc are presented. Gradation might be based on the complexity of an item, its frequency in written or spoken English, or its importance for the students. In other words, what is taught at the beginning of a lesson is selected, because it occurs frequently or because the students needs are immediate for real-world communication. In line, Richards, Platt, and Weber in Nunan (2004) explain that grading is the arrangement of the content of a language course or textbook so that it is presented in a helpful way.

The aim of grading and sequencing the task is to decide which content that comes first and which comes later. It is also used to give the different level of difficulty, so the students can improve their ability better. Based on Richards (2001), he proposes the criteria for sequencing content in a language course. Here are the criteria of sequencing task.

1. Simple to complex

In sequencing tasks, the commonest ways used is sequencing by the level of difficulty.

2. Chronology

Content might be sequenced according to the order in which events occur in the real world.

3. Need

Content might be sequenced according to the students are most likely needs. The topics are contextualization based on the students needs.

4. Prerequisite learning

The sequence of content might reflect what is necessary at one point as a foundation for the next step in the learning process.

5. Whole to part or part to whole

In some cases, materials at the beginning of course might focus on the overall structure or organization of a topic before considering the individual components that make it up. Alternatively, the course might focus on practicing the parts before the whole.

6. Spiral sequencing

This approach involves the recycling of items to ensure that students have repeated opportunities to learn them.

d A Framework for Task-Based Language Teaching

In this modern language teaching approach, Task-Based Instruction has the different approach to the traditional one like P-P-P (Presentation, Practice, and Production). Task-Based Instruction has its own framework which uses a meaningful interaction that can build the students' language awareness and the language development. According to Willis (1996), there are three sequences of activities that can be followed in developing the materials by using Task-Based Instruction.

In Task-Based Instruction, the focuses of learning are divided into three sequences namely Pre Task, Task Cycle and Language Focus. Each sequence has different purpose to engage the learning materials to the students. Pre Task activities, also called as the introduction to topic, mean as the first step to make the students understand about the theme and objectives. In this step, the materials given are related to the warming up process by using some pictures, mime or the students' experience to gather their ideas. In this step, the materials consist of many questions that can help the students to think about the topic in general.

Task cycle is when the students perform the task by doing problem-solving exercises in pairs or small groups. The students then prepare a report for the whole class on how they did the task and what conclusions they reached. In composing the tasks, the materials should be divided into three phase namely Task, Planning and Report.

Firstly, task is an initial phase that should be given to the students. In task, the students are given a text, then they have to express everything related to the text in a small group without any grammatical correction. The emphasis of this phase is that the students will be able to express something spontaneously without any intervention from others and they can build their self-confidence when they express their perspectives in written or oral form.

Planning is the second stage of task cycle where the students have to report the reason of why they give their opinion. In this stage, the teacher gives some corrections and advises for the students to make an improvement in the students' writing product. The teacher can ask the students to do a peer-editing as one of the writing task. By doing a peer-editing, the students can give a correction for other's work and learn a correct grammar by themselves.

The last stage of task cycle is report where the students are ready with their findings and they have to present in front of the class in a brief report. While a group explains a presentation, other group can give comments or questions related to the presentation. At the end of the presentation, the teacher should comment the content of the students' reports as an improvement for other group presentations. The purpose of this stage is the students are trained to be a good public speaker and also build their self-confidence.

Before composing a good writing product, the students have to understand about the English grammar which is also called as language focus. In language focus, there are two aspects that should be concerned by the students namely analysis and practice. The teacher focuses on the language tasks based on the texts that write by the students. In analyzing the language, the teacher asks the students to find the grammar used in a certain text such as find words or phrases related to the topic, find the tenses and etc and reviews what the students found at the end. The second is practice activity based on the language analysis. The practice activities include choral repetition, sentence completion, matching, and etc.

B. Review of Related Study

The related studies of designing a task based learning materials for senior high school students is done by Erythrina Cahyaningsih (2010). The study by Erythrina Cahyaningsih is a research and development study which aimed to provide more integrated reading and writing materials for senior high school students. The research observation was held in SMA BOPKRI 2 Yogyakarta which focus on giving some activities that can grasp the students' attention during the learning process.

The implementation of the study is adapted from Kemp's and Yalden's instructional model and employed research and development method. The materials consist of eight units which provide an integrated reading and writing skills using task based learning. The findings revealed that the designed materials are suitable and acceptable to be used in the senior high school. Based on the research's findings, task based language teaching can be applied in developing the materials to facilitate the students in improving their reading and writing skill.

In this research, the researcher focused on providing the supplementary writing materials which are related to the students' needs. The materials design development was inspired by the previous research which used task-based language teaching to develop the materials. In the materials development, the researcher also used the technology for the writing task, therefore the supplementary writing materials attracted the students' interesting in learning writing.

C. Conceptual Framework

Based on the theories above, the tenth grade of senior high school students need a supplementary materials beyond the textbooks, because it meets the students' needs. The tasks can develop the students' language skills in a meaningful way because the materials and the tasks are based on the authentic materials. Therefore, the researcher starts with the need analysis to provide an appropriate materials with the students' needs.

Although the materials development is a supplementary materials, the tasks should focus on the basic competences based on the Curriculum 2013 as a source in developing the materials. The focus of language skill in this supplementary materials is writing skill, so it is important to provide some writing tasks that are suitable for the tenth grade students. The appropriate topic in each unit is also important to make the students interested in learning writing skill.

In order to develop a set of supplementary writing materials for the tenth grade of senior high school students, the researcher considered the theories explained in the theoretical review to support process in developing materials of this study. They are teaching for young students, teaching writing in senior high school, types of tasks based on task based language teaching, task grading and sequences and the steps of task based language teaching. In designing the materials, the writer uses Jolly and Bolitho's materials development process with some combinations by Yalden and Hutchinson and Waters to arrange the conceptual framework of this study. The conceptual framework of this study is presented in Figure 2.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHOD

A. Model Development

This research study is categorized as Research and Development (R&D) because the aim of this research study is to acquire a finished product that can be used effectively in an educational program (Borg, 1983:772). The definition of product does not only refer to the learning materials (e.g textbooks, modules, etc) but also the learning procedure (e.g method of organizing instruction). To make the product can be used effectively in English classroom, the product is specified as writing learning materials which are categorized as additional materials. The research focuses on developing a supplementary English writing learning materials using task-based language teaching for tenth grade students of senior high school.

In developing an educational product using R&D method, there are series of steps that must be taken in this approach which is called as Research and Development cycle. The step of R&D cycle which is proposed by Borg and Gall (1983:775) consists of research and information collecting, planning, developing a preliminary form of the product, preliminary field testing, operational product revision, operational field testing, the final product revision, and dissemination and implementation. Although there are many steps that have to be followed in conducting the R&D cycle, there are only five important cycle that must be taken in order to develop and validate the product.

B. Procedure of Development

The research procedure in developing writing materials using task based language teaching for tenth grade senior high school students is adapted from Masuhara's model (Tomlinson, 1998:247). Masuhara proposes 5 steps in designing the materials. Those five steps are needs analysis, goals, objectives, syllabus design, methodology or materials, and testing and evaluation. According to Masuhara's, this study used the model as follows:

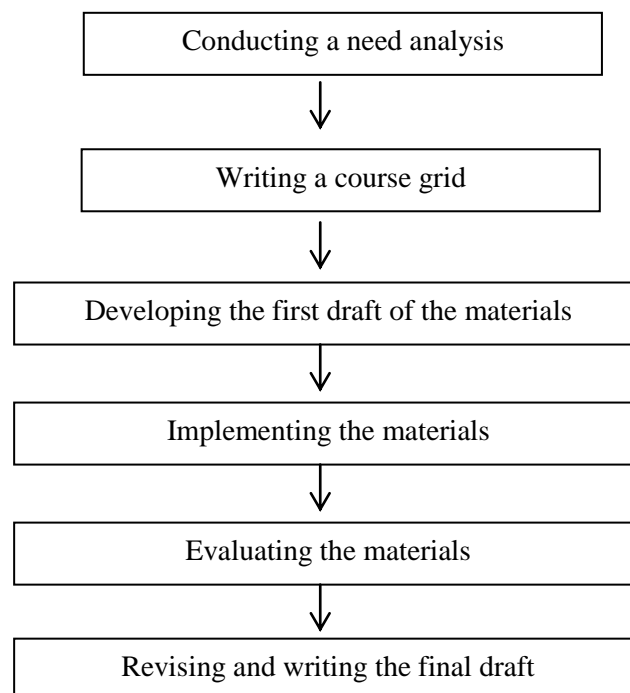

Figure 3: The model of the research procedure modified by Masuhara in Tomlinson (1998:247)

1. Need Analysis

In line with the research question, the first step before developing the supplementary materials was analyzing about the students' needs. The purpose of this stage was to collect information about the students' needs and interests in learning English. The data consisted of the materials about what the students interested in, their opinion about English writing, the learning materials (e.g the input, the task, the topic, and etc), the difficulties in learning English writing, the process of doing writing activity (e.g individually, in pairs, in grup, and etc) and the guidance in doing the writing activities. The result of the need analysis was used as a starting point on developing the suitable English writing materials.

2. Writing the Course Grid

The next step after analyzing the result of the students' needs was designing the course grid of the writing materials. The course grid was developed based on the result of the need analysis. In this step, the course grid consisted of three units of writing materials which represented the two types of text namely descriptive text and recount text.

The course grid consisted of the learning materials and the learning activities that would be conducted in the supplementary writing materials book. The selected topics in each unit was selected based on the students' interest. The theme was graded and followed by basic competencies, key grammatical structure, vocabularies, input texts, and tasks. The materials were presented in three steps based on task-based language teaching namely pre-task, task cycle, and language focus. The task cycle also consisted of task, planning and report which focused on the task grade, while language focus consisted of analysis and practice which was related to the grammar and vocabulary.

3. Writing the First Draft of the Materials

In developing supplementary materials, the first step was writing the first draft. In this stage, the content of the materials based on the previous course grid. The course grid was used to be a guidance for developing the materials because it contained many parts of learning materials that were appropriate with the students's needs.

4. Implementing the Materials

The completed first draft materials implemented in the writing teaching learning process was to make sure that the materials were appropriate with the students' needs. According to the Lee and Owens (2004), the implementation was divided into individual try out and field try out. In this research, the researcher used the individual try out because of considering the time allocation. The materials had been tried out to 10 students of the tenth grade senior high school students in order to get feedback that was used in revising the materials. Before trying out the materials, the first draft consulted with the thesis supervisor.

5. Evaluating the Materials

After implementing the materials, the materials assessed by the students to measure whether the materials were appropriate with the students' needs or not. The feedback was in the second questionnaire and interview to reflect the lack of the materials. The subject of the questionnaire was the students. The result of the questionnaire was a guidance for improving the writing learning materials.

6. Revising the Materials

At this stage, the materials have been revised to make it more suitable, useful and it met the students' needs. The feedback was used as a revision guidance which was suggested by the students. In revising the materials, the learning materials should be consulted to the thesis supervisor in order to make sure the appropriate learning materials. The final result of the materials was a set of supplementary writing learning materials for tenth year senior high school students using Task Based Language Teaching.

7. Writing the Final Draft of the Materials

In this stage, the result of the revision was written as the final draft of developing the supplementary writing materials. The final result was the product of this research that was supposed to be useful for the students. In other words, the final result of the revision was the writing materials for the tenth year senior high school students' of SMA Negeri 2 Yogyakarta in the academic year 2015/2016 in the first semester.

C. Design of Product Testing

1. Testing Design

a. Questionnaire

There were two types of questionnaire that were used in this research. The first questionnaire was used to get the data about the students' needs. The first questionnaire distributed in the early stage of the study to assess what the students needs are. In the questionnaire, the students were asked to choose some options related to the questions or it was also called as close question. The question consulted with the thesis supervisor before it would be distributed to the tenth year senior high school students' of SMA Negeri 2 Yogyakarta.

After finishing the first draft, the next questionnaire was used to improve the first draft learning materials which were also called as the second questionnaire. In this second questionnaire, the content of the questionnaire consisted of the question which was used to revise the task. The second questionnaire was the assessment of the first draft. The questionnaire was distributed to the expert and the ten grade senior high school students. The result of the second questionnaire was the improvement of the learning materials.

The use of the questionnaire for the students was to strengthen the validity of the books that the book was appropriate for the tenth grade students of the senior high school. The questionnaire consisted of 20 questions.

b. Interview

In obtaining the data of the students' needs, the English teacher was also to be interviewed by the researcher. The use of interview was to get deeper information about the teachers' needs and interests related to the materials that would be developed. The interview consisted of 18 questions.

Table 3.4 : The Organization of the Teacher's Interview Guideline

| No. | Aspects | The Purpose of Questions | References |

2. Subject Design

The subject of the study was the tenth year students of SMAN 2 Yogyakarta to the academic year 2015/2016. There were seven classes which consisted of 30 students. In this study, the subject of the research was taken from 25 students from X IPS which had the similar characteristics of the sample of the study.

3. Techniques and Instrument of Data Collection

a. Data Collection Techniques

The data collection techniques of this study were questionnaire and interview. The questionnaire were applied in the needs analysis and in the process of the learning materials development. By doing need analysis, the research found out the students' learning characteristics.

The next technique of data collection used interview technique. The result of the interview used in the process of learning materials development. After conducting both techniques, the result of the data analyzed and organized to draw the conclusion of the collected data.

b. Data Collection Instruments

The instruments of data collection were questionnaire and interview. The data collection was held on two separated times. The first data collection was held on the beginning of the research by distributing the first questionnaire, namely needs analysis. In this first research, the process of observing the data was used to find out the profile of tenth year students of SMAN 2 Yogyakarta and the students' needs and interests in learning English writing in the form of multiple choices.

The second questionnaire distributed for the students to assess the appropriateness of the learning materials designed. The feedback of the questionnaire and the interview were used as guidance for revising the learning materials. In this stage, the students and the teacher had to be interviewed to find out deeper information about the suitability of the students' needs and interests.

c. The Validity and Reliability of the Instruments

Construct validity was applied to find the validity of the instrument. To fulfill the validity, the researcher discussed the questionnaire and the interview guideline with the first consultant. The researcher consulted the outline of the instruments to make sure whether the instruments were capable to obtain the information. Some references related to the good criteria of the book and the aspects of evaluating the book.

Alpha Cronbach formula was used to measure the reliability in this research. There were five possible points. They were Very Good for 5 points, Good for 4 points, Fairly for 3 points, Poor for 2 points and Very Poor for 1 point. The instruments were tried out to the grade ten senior high school's students and the expert. After distributing the questionnaire, the researcher made a recapitulation of the students and respondents' answers.

4. The Technique of Data Analysis

The data and the information obtained were used to develop the task-based supplementary writing book. There were two types of data collected in this research. They were qualitative and quantitative data. The interview data were analyzed as the quantitative data while the questionnaire data was analyzed as quantitative data.

a. The Qualitative Data

The qualitative data were obtained from the teacher's interview. The interview was based on the interview guideline. The blueprint of the interview guideline had been mentioned before. The result of the interview was written in the form of interview transcripts. The aim of the interview was at finding information about the students' characteristics, students' needs and interests and the needs of English teaching and learning process. The results of the data were used to develop the book in order to make it appropriate with the students' needs.

b. The Quantitative Data

The researcher used Likert Scale in analyzing the data. Likert Scale was used to quantify the respondents' opinion through the questionnaires. The quantitative data were obtained from the first questionnaire in the needs analysis and second questionnaire in the implementation. There were 5 points in the Likert Scale. Scoring of the data formulated in the following formula.

1 = Very Poor

2 = Poor

3 = Fairly

4 = Good

5 = Very Good

In deciding the most answer that was chosen by the students in need analysis, the data were analyzed by using percentage. The percentage formula would be explained as follows:

$$\%X = \frac{f}{N} \times 100\%$$

$\%X$ = total of percentage

f = the amount of the chosen option

N = the total amount of the students

After calculating the percentage, the data from the Likert Scale then were converted into descriptive statistics. The data conversion table proposed by Purwanto (2009) was used to describe the result using descriptive analysis. Below is the data conversion table.

Table 3.5: The Category of the Assessment Rating Scale

| No | Scale | Category |
|----|----------|-----------|
| 1. | 86%-100% | Very Good |
| 2. | 76%-85% | Good |
| 3. | 60%-75% | Average |
| 4. | 46%-59% | Bad |
| 5. | ≤45% | Very Bad |

(Purwanto,2009)

The second questionnaire which was addressed to the expert to get their judgements was also analyzed using Likert Scale. The data from this questionnaire was measured by using Mean and analyzed by using formula proposed by Suharto (2008) which is:

$$Mn = \frac{\Sigma fx}{N}$$

Where: Mn= Mean

Σfx = total score

N= total number of data

In classifying the category of mean, theory proposed by Suharto (2006) about quantitative data conversion was used.

$$R = \frac{(Xt - Xr)}{4}$$

Where: R= Range

Xt = highest score

Xr = lowest score

The range obtained from calculating of the formula above was 0,75. The conversion was presented below.

Table 3.6 : Data Conversion Table for Second Questionnaire

| Scale | Equivalent | Descriptive Categories | Interval |
|-------|---------------------|------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 | Sangat Tidak Setuju | Poor | $1 \leq x \leq 1.74$ |
| 2 | Tidak Setuju | Fair | $1.75 \leq x \leq 2.24$ |
| 3 | Setuju | Good | $2.25 \leq x \leq 3.24$ |
| 4 | Sangat Setuju | Very Good | $3.25 \leq x \leq 4$ |

CHAPTER IV
RESEARCH FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

A. Result of the Development

1. The Needs Analysis

a. The Result of The Questionnaire for Tenth Grade Students

The need analysis questionnaire was a close-ended questionnaire and it consisted of 20 questions with four answer. In the certain questions, the students can choose more than 1 answer. In describing the result of the students questionnaire, the explanation was divided into two aspects; there was the descriptions of the students' profile and the descriptions of the students' needs.

a) The Descriptions of the Students' Profile

Table 4.1 : The Result of the Students' Profile

| Number of the Students | Sex | | Age Range |
|------------------------|------|--------|-----------|
| | Male | Female | |
| 25 | 12 | 13 | 16-17 |

Based on the table above, the data collection was distributed to a balanced number of the students which was 12 male and 13 female. The result of the need analysis data represented about what the students' needs was about writing learning materials. The sample of the students was categorized as the young students students in the tenth grade because the range of the students age was from 16 years old to 17 years old.

b) The Descriptions of the Students' Needs

1) Goal

Table 4.2 : The Result of the Question Number 1 and 2

| No. | Question | Item | N | % |
|-----|---|-----------------------------|-----------|------------|
| 1. | How is the English teaching and learning process in the classroom especially in writing activities? | A. very interesting | 0 | 0% |
| | | B. quite interesting | 14 | 56% |
| | | C. not interesting | 11 | 44% |
| | | D. very not interesting | 0 | 0% |
| 2. | How important is the ability to write in English? | A. very important | 18 | 72% |
| | | B. quite important | 5 | 20% |
| | | C. not important | 2 | 8% |
| | | D. very not important | 0 | 0% |

The questions number 1 and 2 were aimed to find the information about the students' opinion and interest of learning writing. The questions were related to the students' opinion of writing activity in the classroom and the importance of the learning writing activities. Based on the result of the questionnaire, 56% of the students assumed that writing activity in the classroom was already quite interesting. The students really realized that learning writing was important for them. In the number 2, the rest of the students stated that the writing ability was very important in English. It means that the students really needed the writing activity to improve their skill and they want to learn writing in an interesting activity.

2) Wants

Table 4.3 : The Result of the Questions Number 3 and 14

| No. | Question | Item | N | % |
|-----|--|--|-----------|------------|
| 3. | What are your expectations of the enhancement of writing activities? | A. to be able to improve the vocabulary | 6 | 24% |
| | | B. to be able to use the written language in daily life | 6 | 24% |
| | | C. to be able to write a text correctly | 9 | 36% |
| | | D. to be able to comprehend the text and answer the question based on the text correctly | 4 | 16% |
| 14. | What are the learning writing activities do you like? | A. continuing the story | 7 | 28% |
| | | B. re-writing the story using the students' own word | 6 | 24% |
| | | C. composing a text based on the picture or the story | 10 | 40% |
| | | D. completing the blank paragraph | 2 | 8% |

The aim of the question number 3 and 14 was to find out the students' desire in learning English, especially in writing activities. In answering these questions, the students were allowed to choose more than one answer. Some of the students expected that they were able to write a text correctly. It can be seen that 36 % of the students chose “c”. The rest of the students preferred to compose a text based on the picture or the story. Based on the table, in the questions number 4, there were 10 students chose “c”. It means that most of the students want to be able to write a text correctly and they improve their writing skill by composing a text based on the picture or the story. It can be concluded that in learning writing, the students want to write correctly and they want to learn writing from the picture or the story.

3) Input

| 12. | Do you interested in an authentic text for learning English (such as advertisement, newspaper's article, manual book, and etc)? | A. very interesting | 12 | 48 % |
| | | B. interesting | 4 | 16 % |
| | | C. quite interesting | 9 | 36 % |
| | | D. not interesting | 0 | 0 % |
| 13. | How important is learning grammar in composing a text? | A. very important | 14 | 56 % |
| | | B. important | 11 | 44 % |
| | | C. quite important | 0 | 0 % |

The questions number 4, 5, 12, and 13 was aimed to find the information about kinds of input that the students need. The students can choose more than 1 answer in certain questions. In deciding the writing learning materials, the students were prefer comprehend the short story to understand the newspaper's article. In order to improve the students writing skill, the question was also to find out the students learning writing method in the input aspect. Based on the table above, 40% students were preferred write an English text directly to make the text outline.

The input of writing materials was not only focused on the text and the learning method but also the text authenticity and the language focus of the text. There were 12 students who were very interested in learning writing from the authentic text such as an advertisement, article and etc. The students assumed that focusing a linguistic aspect such as grammar was also important. It can be shown that there were 56% of the students who stated that learning grammar was very important to minimize the grammatical error in composing a work.

4) Topic

Table 4.5 : The Result of Questionnaire Number 6

| No. | Question | Item | N | % |
|-----|--|---|-----------|------------|
| 6. | In your opinion, what kind of writing materials topics that you like the most? | A. Daily life (school life, family, and etc) | 22 | 58% |
| | | B. Health | 2 | 5% |
| | | C. Nature | 5 | 13% |
| | | D. Economic and socio-cultural | 9 | 24% |

The aim of this question was to find the information about the students preference for the topic of the materials. In this question, the students can choose more than one answer. There were 58 % students chose the daily life topic which was related to the school life, family and etc. Moreover, the topic affected the students' interest in learning writing materials because it was used in every chapter in the supplementary writing materials.

5) Materials

| | | B. important | 12 | 48% |
| | | C. not important | 3 | 12% |
| | | D. not very important | 0 | 0% |

The aim of the question was to find out the appropriateness of the content, language, and the presentation in the materials. Those questions were measured whether the student English writing textbook was interesting or not. In line with the table above, the questions number 7,8, and 9 were asked about the textbook appropriateness. It can be concluded that the students English writing textbook was quite interesting but it was less sufficient to fulfil the students' need of writing activity.

Based on the table above, there were 40 % students stated that the English writing textbook was quite interesting whereas there were also 40 % students assumed that the writing activity was less interesting. Moreover, most of the students chose "c" which is considered that the learning writing activities in the classroom were improving their writing ability. However, the writing activities in the textbook was less sufficient.

To make the students more interested in learning writing, the materials were related to the other media such as picture. It can be seen in the table that 48% of the students assumed that picture was important in learning writing. The use of picture in the textbook presentation affected the students' interest in learning writing because they assumed that the picture was important aspect to gain their interest.

6) Lacks

Table 4.7 : The Result of Questionnaire Number 11

| No. | Question | Item | N | % |
|-----|---|----------------------------------|-----------|-------------|
| 11. | What are the difficulties factor in learning writing? | A. comprehend the grammar | 17 | 37 % |
| | | B. comprehend the vocabulary | 10 | 22% |
| | | C. decide the topic | 8 | 17% |
| | | D. develop the ideas | 11 | 24% |

This question was aimed to find out the students' difficulties in learning writing. There were 17 students who chose "a" which meant that the difficulty factor of learning writing was comprehending the grammar. Some of the students assumed that comprehending the grammar was the difficult aspect of improving their writing skill. In this question, the students can choose more than one answer.

7) Needs

Table 4.8 : The Result of Questionnaire Number 10

| No. | Question | Item | N | % |
|-----|--|--|-----------|------------|
| 10. | In your opinion, do you need an additional writing materials beside the currently English textbook in improving the writing ability? | A. very need the additional writing materials | 17 | 68% |
| | | B. need the additional writing materials | 8 | 32% |
| | | C. not need the additional writing materials | 0 | 0% |
| | | D. not very need the additional writing materials | 0 | 0% |

According to the result of the data above, the students expectation of learning writing skill was to be able to write an English text correctly in their daily life. In improving the students writing ability, most of students assumed that the additional writing materials were really needed. It can be seen that 68% of students chose "a" in the question number 10. In the learning writing activity, 10 students wanted to write a text based on the picture or the story.

8) The Involvement of Technology

Table 4.9 : The Result of Questionnaire Number 16,17,and 18

| No. | Question | Item | N | % |
|-----|---|----------------------------|-----------|------------|
| 16. | How often does the use of the technology such as mobile phone, laptop, and etc support in learning writing in the classroom? | A. always | 3 | 12% |
| | | B. sometimes | 14 | 56% |
| | | C. seldom | 7 | 28% |
| | | D. never | 1 | 4% |
| 17. | Do you think that the use of the technology can motivate you in learning writing? | A. very motivated | 7 | 28% |
| | | B. motivated | 16 | 64% |
| | | C. not motivated | 2 | 8% |
| | | D. not very motivated | 0 | 0% |
| 18. | If there is an additional materials which uses a social media as the learning media, do you think that it can make the learning writing more interesting? | A. very interesting | 13 | 52% |
| | | B. quite interesting | 11 | 44% |
| | | C. less interesting | 1 | 4% |

The purpose of these questions were to find the necessity of the technology on learning materials. The question number 16 was aimed to find out the use of technology in learning writing in the classroom. There were 56 % of the students stated that they sometimes used the technology in learning writing. In the question number 17, the students were asked about the relation between the use of technology and the learning writing motivation. There were 16 students who were motivated in learning writing when the technology was involved in teaching learning process. The last, the aim of the question number 18 was to find out whether the students were more motivated in learning writing by using social media or not. The use of the social media was interested to the students in learning writing as can be seen in the table which 52% of the students chose “a”. It can be concluded that the use of social media in learning writing was very interesting in improving the students’ writing skill.

9) Students’ role

Table 4.10 : The Result of Questionnaire Number 19 and 20

| No. | Question | Item | N | % |
|-----|--|--|-----------|------------|
| 19. | How do you expect to finish writing task? | A. individually | 8 | 32% |
| | | B. in pairs | 6 | 24% |
| | | C. in group | 6 | 24% |
| | | D. whole class | 5 | 0% |
| 20. | When you find a problem during writing a text, what do you do? | A. asking a teacher | 2 | 8% |
| | | B. asking a friend | 18 | 72% |
| | | C. trying to solve problem by yourself | 5 | 20% |

The aim of the question was to find the student’s role of the teaching and learning process. The question number 19 aimed to know about the students’ role in doing the tasks. Based on the table above, there is no significant different between 4 options, but the most of the students chose “a” or there were 32% of the students who preferred to work individually. Therefore, most of the materials development in the supplementary writing materials should be an individual task.

The last question was number 20 which aimed to obtain the students’ role in solving the problem while the students were doing an assignment. It can be seen in the table that there were 18 students solved the problem by asking their friend. On the other hand, there was no student do anything when they got a problem in doing assignment.

b. The Result of the Teacher Interview

The interview was administered to the English teacher of tenth grade students of SMA Negeri 2 Yogyakarta which was designed by using some of the literature reviews. In conducting the teacher interview, the researcher prepared 18 questions related to the English teaching and learning process. The question consisted of the technique in teaching writing, the source of the materials, and the teacher’s opinion about task based writing materials.

| R | : Media apa yang Ibu gunakan di dalam kelas? Apakah ibu membuatnya sendiri? Latihan apa saja yang digunakan dalam pembelajaran menulis? What kinds of media do you use in teaching writing? Do you make the media by yourself? What kinds of assignment do you use in teaching writing? |
| T | : Saya menggunakan powerpoint sebagai media pembelajaran yang diambil dari internet dan latihan soal – soal saya ambilkan dari LKS yang dikerjakan dirumah sehingga siswa bisa menjadi lebih aktif. (I use the powerpoint as the media by searching from the internet and the assignment from the LKS. The writing activity is an assignment from the LKS which is done at home |

so the students can be an active students.)

Appendix Interview1

From the excerpt above, it can be concluded that in English teaching and learning process, the teacher used LKS as the learning source and used the Power Point as a media to help the teaching process. LKS or additional materials help the students to improve their writing skill individually because the students can do the task at home. The teacher also stated that the limit of time in learning English based on the Curriculum 2013 obstructed the English teaching writing process.

R : Bagaimana menurut Ibu mengenai buku tambahan untuk pembelajaran menulis? Topik apa yang menurut Ibu menarik?

(What do you think about a supplementary writing materials in teaching writing? What kinds of topic that can be interesting in the supplementary materials?)

(Good. The writing activities in LKS are less sufficient for the students. The topic should be up to date such as the article from Jakarta Post because some of the inputs in the textbook are out of date. The use of social media is also important to improve the students' writing skill.)

Appendix Interview2

According to the transcript above, the recently LKS was not interesting enough, because the input materials were out of date and the tasks in LKS were not related to the use of the technology. The teacher expected that the learning materials should be more interesting because the supplementary materials were done by the students individually. The teacher also stated that the learning materials could be more interesting if it was related to the students' life.

|---|---|
| R | : Apakah penggunaan pembelajaran Task Based mempermudah siswa dalam meningkatkan kemampuan menulis? (Do the use of Task Based facilitate the teaching writing?) |
| T | : Ya, Task Based sangat mempermudah siswa dalam meningkatkan kemampuan menulis karena dalam menulis, dimulai dari brainstorming, draft sebelum tulisan jadi. Sejalan dengan teori Task Based. (Yes, Task Based is very facilitating the students in improving their writing ability because in learning writing, the students need to brainstorming, make an outline and the last a whole of the text. Those steps are in line with Task Based theory.) |

(Appendix Interview)3

In developing the writing learning materials, the teacher agreed that Task Based facilitated the student in learning writing, because the focus of improving the writing's skill was doing many tasks. The teacher considered that the use of Task Based theory was appropriate in learning writing since the steps of the method guided the students to learn from the easiest task to the difficult ones. The teacher also assumed that the use of the Task Based theory in developing the supplementary writing materials was a good method to help the students in improving their writing skill.

2. The Course Grid

a. Planning

After conducting the need analysis, the researcher wrote the course grid as the guideline of developing the writing materials. The course grid was written based on the result of the need analysis and the basic competences of Curriculum 2013. The curriculum was used in SMA Negeri 2 Yogyakarta. The course grid used the basic competences 4.10 and 4.12 which consisted of descriptive texts and announcement. The learning materials development was based on the Task Based Language Teaching.

As mentioned before, in this supplementary writing materials, there were two text types, they are descriptives text and announcement. The supplementary writing book was developed into three units. The first and the second units were descriptives text which are about describing people and place while the third unit was short functional text which is about announcement.

The theme of the book was related to the students daily life such as school life, family, and etc. It was based on the result of the need analysis that 58% of the students were interested in their daily life theme for learning writing. The theme was divided into three topics. In the unit 1, the topic described person such as family member, popular singer, the students' idol, or etc. In the unit 2, the text was also descriptive text but it described places such as a well-known tourist attraction or historical buildings. The last topic was an announcement such as a school event announcement or cancellation announcement.

The learning objectives of the lesson were important for the students to make them understand about the generic structure and the language features of the descriptives text and announcement. After deciding the learning objectives, the indicators were listed in detail. There were some indicators in each unit that indicated the abilities that should be learned by the students in every unit.

In the learning materials, there were six sub components they are text, content, generic structure, social function, grammar and vocabulary. The six sub components were taken from the basic competences of Curriculum 2013 which concerns with the social function, text structure and the language features. According to Hutchinson and Walters (1987) in materials design, the course grid should consist of some components in which each sub component has the different function to explain the learning materials in detail. The purpose of the social function is to make the students understand why they should learn the text and understand the moral value of the text. The text structure is also called as generic structure which explain about every part in the text. The language features can be divided into sub aspects such as grammar, vocabulary, and etc which explain about the linguistic aspect of the text.

Besides those components, there were another component such as learning activities, evaluation, teaching kits, and time allocation. The learning activities were related to the technique that was used in developing the materials based on the literature review. The next was evaluation which contained the answer key of the writing task and the self reflection to measure the improvement of the students' writing skills. Teaching kits were the media that were used in doing the writing activities. The last was the time allocation which contain the time estimation in doing each task.

b. Developing the Course Grid

In developing the course grid, it was designed based on the materials development by Hutchinson and Waters (1987) and the result of the need analysis. There were two text types that were explained in this book, but it contain three units. There were many components of the course grid which can be seen as follows.

Table 4. 11 : The Components of the Course Grid

| Basic Competence | | | | | | | | | | | |
|------------------|------------|--------------------|---------|-------------------|-----------------|---------|-------|---------------------|------------|---------------|-----------------|
| Unit | Indicators | Learning Materials | | | | | | Learning Activities | Evaluation | Teaching Kits | Time Allocation |
| | | Text | Content | Generic Structure | Social Function | Grammar | Vocab | | | | |

According to the table above, the first component of the course grid was the basic competence. The competence was taken from the Curriculum 2013. The basic competence was the number 4.10 and 4.12. The contents of the basic competences were the implementation of descriptives text which was describing people and place and short functional text which is in the form of written announcement.

The second component was unit. As presented before, the unit of this writing materials book was divided into three units. Unit 1 was describing about people, unit 2 was describing about place and unit 3 was announcement related to the student's daily life . Unit 1 and 2 were based on the basic competence number 4.10 and unit 3 based on the basic competence number 4.12.

The third component of the course grid was indicators. The indicators of the unit was different because it was based on the learning objectives in the basic competence. The indicators of each unit explained some learning objectives' points which have to be passed by the students at the end of the lesson. The learning indicators can be seen in the learning process.

The fourth component of the course grid was learning materials. As presented before, the learning materials consisted of six sub components. Those six sub components were text, content, generic structure, social function, grammar, and vocabulary. Those sub components were developed based on each type of text. In the unit 1 and 2 the generic structure and the social function were similar, but in the other components, it were different based on the topic of the text.

The next component was learning activities. In this component, the researcher used the Task Based Language Teaching as the materials development technique. The learning activities were divided into three parts pre task, task cycle and language focus. Pre-task and task cycle were the technique of designing the materials while language focus was included in the task cycle. In the task cycle, there were three sub steps which were task, planning, and report. The tasks were sequenced based on the level of the task difficulty which is from the easiest to the difficult ones.

The next component was evaluation. The evaluation was aimed for the students to assess their work. The evaluation for the students was divided into three which were reflection, answer key and writing self assessment rubric. The reflection was included at the end of every unit in the student book, while the answer key and self assessment rubric were provided in the study guide book. The aim of the evaluation part was to measure the students' writing skills and help the students in doing the task independently.

The seventh component of the course grid was teaching kits. Teaching kits were media that were used by the students in learning writing skills. The teaching kits in each unit was different. The examples of teaching kits were worksheet, picture, puzzle, social media account, wall magazine, and etc. The detail equipments that were used in producing the writing work were also including the teaching kits.

The last component was time allocation. As a supplementary writing materials book, the time allocation of doing the writing work was unlimited in which the students can write the tasks at home. In this course grid, the time allocation was used to estimate the time of producing the work.

The aim of composing the components of the course grid were to achieve the learning objectives of the lessons. The course grid can be also as guideline in developing the writing materials. The components of the course grid were listed to support the teaching and learning process. Therefore, developing course grid was the important part of developing the learning materials.

c. The Description of the Course Grid of Supplementary Writing Materials using Task Based Language Teaching

1. Unit 1 : What does she look like?

The topic of the first unit in the supplementary writing book was about the description of someone. The title of each unit used the question tag to reflect the expressions that always use in each text topic. In this unit, the students learned about the descriptive text which concerned in describing people. The students were given some stories, pictures, and etc to help them comprehend the materials.

The indicators were listed to achieve the learning objectives of the lessons. The students were expected to answer some questions, mention the social function, write the generic structure of the text, write a descriptive paragraph, compose a correct short paragraph, and compose a descriptive text. The indicators were related to other components of the course grid.

As mentioned before, there were six components in the learning materials. The input of the texts were My Best Friend, Dian Pelangi, Wanted Announcement, and Emily's Potrait. The input was taken from the authentic text which contained the description of someone such as in wanted announcement or Dian Pelangi's short biography. The content of the learning materials was based on the text. The generic structure of the descriptive text was identification and description. The social function of descriptive text was to describe and reveal a particular person, place or thing. The grammar that was used in this unit was simple present tense. The vocabularies used were related to the adjectives of the people's physical appearance.

The learning activities were divided into two steps. The first was pre task which was presented some pictures to warm up the students and the second was task cycle. In the task cycle, there were three stages which were task, planning and report. In the task stage, the students read some descriptives text and wrote down the answer based on the questions. In the planning stage, the students tried to compose a simple sentence by using the adjectives word. The last stage was report. In this stage, the students shared their work by composing a simple announcement of missing people or wanted.

The evaluation of each unit was divided into two answer key and rubic. Every evaluation in each unit was similar because each task was provided the answer key for the students in the study guide book. The rubic of each unit was presented at the last page of the study guide book which was used to assess the improvement of the students' writing ability.

The teaching kits used in each stage were different. The media that were used in the pre task activity were worksheet, puzzle and picture, while in report stages, the media used in this stages were scissors, picture and other equipment related to composing an interesting announcement. Those media supported the teaching and learning process as well.

The last component of the course grid was time allocation. The time allocation in every activity was different. The different of the time allocation was determined based on the difficulty level of each task. For example in matching activity, it took only 5 minutes while in composing the announcement, it took 10 minutes. It was different because composing the announcement was more difficult than matching the pictures.

2. Unit 2 : Where is it located?

The topic of the second unit in the supplementary writing book was about the description of tourist attraction. In this unit, the students also learned about the descriptive text but the topic was different. In this unit, the topic was describing the place. The inputs were about Prambanan Temple, London, and some short description texts.

The indicators and the social function of this unit were similar to the previous unit which was also the descriptive text. The grammar used in this unit was simple present tense. The vocabularies used were related to the adjectives word based on the story or the picture such as beautiful, wonderful, scenery, forest, waterfall, and etc.

In the pre task activity, the students were given a picture of tourist attraction, and they wrote down the adjectives related to the picture. In the task stage, the students were given some of the texts and the students answered the questions related to the short paragraph. The second stage was planning. The students chose one of the tourist attractions they liked and wrote down the simple sentence related to the picture. In the report stage, the students uploaded the picture in their social media and wrote down the descriptive text in the caption.

The time allocation in each unit was similar because the time allocation was varied. The time allocation based on the difficulty level of each task. Although the time allocation was similar, the teaching kits were different. The teaching kits were based on the equipment of the task. In this unit, the teaching kits were picture, worksheet, puzzle and social media account for uploading the task.

3. Unit 3 : When will the event held?

In this unit, the students learned about announcement text which the topic was school event announcement. The input texts were related to the school event such as university open house, basketball event, english speech contest, and etc. Although most of the announcements were the school event, the other topic was also provided such as the arrival cancellation. The example of the arrival cancellation was the sample of the authentic text that was used in public area.

In this unit, the students were expected to be able to comprehend the short functional text such as announcement, mention the generic structure of the text, re- write the generic structure of the text, write an announcement, and create an announcement in the classroom wall magazine. In learning materials, the students learned about the generic structure of the text and the expression used in writing the announcement such as the opening and closing.

The social function of announcement was to inform what was happened or what will happened. The generic structure of the text were opening, content and closing. The grammar of announcement was simple present tense. The vocabularies used were related to the announcement such as final, tournament, basketball, and etc.

The learning activities of the announcement were matching and answering the question for the pre-task activity. In the task cycle, there were many activities which were provided such as completing the missing part of the paragraph, numbering the jumbled sentence and etc. In the report stage, the students composed an announcement and they have to patch the work in the classroom wall magazine.

The media used in this unit 3 was similar with the unit 1 and 2. The media were picture and worksheet. The difference of the media used was seen in the report stage. The students composed a handmade school event announcement and the teaching kits adjusted to their needs such as scissors, picture, paper, and etc.

3. The Format of the Activities

a. The Course Grid, Supplementary Writing Book and Study Guide Book

In this research, the researcher developed three teaching instruments which were related to one another. There were the course grid, the supplementary writing book and the study guide book. Each book had different purposes to be used. As mentioned before, the course grid was the result of the combination of the need analysis and the basic competences, while the supplementary writing book was the product of the course grid which was used in teaching and learning process. The last product was the study guide which was used for the manual book in using the supplementary writing book.

In order to make the supplementary writing book more interesting, the researcher used many pictures, colours, and attractive layout and design. In this supplementary writing book, the researcher used Task Based Language Teaching for developing the writing materials. As presented before, the book consisted of three units and each unit consisted of 15 tasks which were developed based on the theory. The format of the supplementary writing book design can be seen in the following.

E. Research Constraint

In conducting this research, the researcher faced an obstacle which came from the external factor. The obstacle was the limitation of time because in distributing first questionnaire, the researcher could almost not get the school permission to conduct the need analysis. It happened because the students had to do the final semester examination and had holiday of Ramadhan and Ied Fitr.

The second obstacle happened in distributing the second questionnaire for the tenth grade students of senior high school. According to the supervisor, the researcher could take a few of sample of tenth grade students which consisted of 10 students. In conducting the second questionnaire, the data were taken informal to make the students can do the whole tasks in the book.

Fortunately, the obstacle was not significantly influencing the evaluation. The book evaluation could be evaluated as well and it was not influencing the result of the book evaluation. CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusion about the Supplementary Writing's Book

There were three conclusions in this research which were finding the writing target needs, the students' learning needs and the appropriate characteristics of the book. The suggestions were addressed to the English teacher, the materials development, and the students of English Education Department.

1. The Target Needs

The writing target needs refers to what the students need to do in the target situation. There were three terms in the writing target needs. They were necessities, lacks, and wants in learning writing. For the necessities, the students were expected to be able to write a text correctly, comprehend about the language features of the text and answer the questions based on the text correctly. The second term was lacks. As mentioned before, the lacks came from the textbook that was not sufficient for the students to improve their writing skill, the limitation of time for learning writing in the classroom, and the lack of students motivation in learning writing. The last was wants. For wants, the students wanted to have an interesting supplementary writing book to support their learning process. The students also wanted a book which contained an interesting activity to motivate them in learning writing.

2. The Learning Needs

The learning needs were about the students' opinion about what they should do to attain the target situation. For the input, the students wanted in learning short texts and the texts were taken from their daily life, so they can easily comprehend the text. Furthermore, they wanted the use of pictures in the learning materials to motivate in learning writing.

In learning activities, the students preferred to answer the questions based on the text and do the learning writing games such as wordsearch puzzle. In this modern era, the students were familiar in using the technology and the social media, so the students also wanted the involvement of the technology in the teaching and learning process. In doing the activities, the students liked to do the tasks individually and in a group work. Therefore, some of the materials could be done individually and in group works. In the students' role, most of the students liked to solve their problem by asking their friends rather than the teacher.

3. The Characteristics of the Appropriate Task Based Supplementary Writing Book

There were three units of the supplementary writing materials using task based language teaching. The unit was divided into three which contained of descriptives text and announcement which were unit 1 and unit 2 explained about describing people and place. Then, In the unit three, it was explained about announcement. Each unit consisted of 15 tasks which were divided into pre task, task, planning and report activity. The topic of the book was related to the students' daily life.

The supplementary writing materials using task based language teaching was completed with the study guide. The study guide consisted of the explanation of each task instruction, answer key and self assessment. Therefore, the study guide could help the students to learn writing materials individually. The supplementary writing materials student's book and the study guide had a good quality of pictures and fonts. The book was also colourful so that the book gained the students' motivation in learning writing.

Based on the result of the expert judgement, the range of the score were $2.67 \leq x \leq 3$. It was categorized as a good supplementary writing materials book. The results were based on the expert evaluation for the first draft of the supplementary writing materials book. In line, the result of the book testing were 2.34 which means that the supplementary writing materials book is good. The result of the book testing was taken from the field implementation for the tenth grade senior high school students. As a result, the supplementary writing materials using task based language teaching was appropriate for the tenth grade students of the senior high school. The book can be applied as an additional materials to help the students to comprehend the writing materials.

B. Suggestions of the Supplementary Writing Book Use

1. Suggestions for the English Teachers

For the English teachers, the researcher proposes three suggestions. The first suggestion is that the teachers should provide more interesting activity to gain the students' motivation in learning English. The second is the teachers give a homework task which is related to the involvement of the social media. The last is the teachers should continually conduct need analysis because the students' needs might be changed.

2. Suggestions for the Materials Developers

For the materials developers, there are two suggestions proposed. The first is the use of the technology in writing task because the use of social media really attracts the student in learning writing. The second is the other researcher should provide more individual work task to make the students comprehend the materials individually because there is a limitation time in learning writing at the school.

3. Suggestions for the Students of English Education Department

For the students of English Education Department, the researcher proposes two suggestions. The first is the students of English Education Department as a teacher candidate should provide more creative and innovative activity in fulfilling the students' needs. The second is they should continually do other research to compose a better task based supplementary writing materials book.

APPENDIX H

INTERVIEW

TRANSCRIPT

Researcher (R) : Seberapa pentingkah pembelajaran menulis (writing) di kelas? Bagaimana pembelajaran menulis (writing) di kelas dan teknik seperti apa yang efektif dalam pembelajaran menulis?

(How important is the teaching writing in the class? How about the method that is used in teaching writing in the class and what is the effective technique in teaching writing?)

Teacher (T) : Menurut saya, writing itu penting sekali. Di dalam kelas, siswa biasa mengerjakan tugas seperti membuat kalimat karena menurut saya teknik tersebut yang paling efektif.

(In my opinion, teaching writing is very important. I usually ask the students to do their assignment such as composing a sentence because it is an effective technique to teach writing.)

R : Media apa yang Ibu gunakan di dalam kelas? Apakah ibu membuatnya sendiri? Latihan apa saja yang digunakan dalam pembelajaran menulis?

What kinds of media do you use in teaching writing? Do you make the media by yourself? What kinds of assignment do you use in teaching writing?

T : Saya menggunakan powerpoint sebagai media pembelajaran yang diambil dari internet dan latihan soal – soal saya ambilkan dari LKS yang dikerjakan dirumah sehingga siswa bisa menjadi lebih aktif.

(I use the powerpoint as the media by searching from the internet and the assignment from the LKS. The writing activity is an assignment from the LKS which is done at home so the students can be an active learner.)

R : Kesulitan apa yang terjadi dalam pembelajaran menulis?

(What is the difficulty in learning writing?)

T : Kesulitannya adalah terbatasnya waktu karena hanya 2 jam pembelajaran Bahasa Inggris, sehingga siswa harus belajar mandiri dirumah jika tidak, mereka akan tertinggal.

(The difficulty in learning writing is the limit of time, because there is only 2 hours for teaching English based on the new curriculum. So, the students have to learn more at home to comprehend the materials.)

R : Bagaimana menurut Ibu mengenai buku tambahan untuk pembelajaran menulis? Topik apa yang menurut Ibu menarik?

(What do you think about a supplementary writing material in teaching writing? What kinds of topic that can be interesting in the supplementary material?)

(Good. The writing activities in LKS are less sufficient for the students. The topic should be up to date such as the article from Jakarta Post because some of the inputs in the textbook are out of date. The use of social media is also important to improve the students' writing skill.)

R : Apakah penggunaan pembelajaran Task Based mempermudah siswa dalam meningkatkan kemampuan menulis?

(Do the use of Task Based facilitate the teaching writing?)

T : Ya, Task Based sangat mempermudah siswa dalam meningkatkan kemampuan menulis karena dalam menulis, dimulai dari brainstorming, draft sebelum tulisan jadi. Sejalan dengan teori Task Based.

(Yes, Task Based is very facilitating the students in improving their writing ability because in learning writing, the students need to brainstorming, make an outline and the last a whole of the text. Those steps are in line with Task Based theory.)
