ABSTRACT

This research is aimed at identifying the types of repair, explaining the patterns of repair, and describing the factors which initiate the repair in the talk show Anderson Cooper 360: Donald Trump, CNN Milwaukee Republican Presidential Town Hall Episode.

The findings of this research were presented in narrative or textual description because the research employed a descriptive qualitative method. The transcript of conversation and the video of Anderson Cooper 360: Donald Trump, CNN Milwaukee Republican Presidential Town Hall Episode was used as the data sources in this research while the form of data was utterances uttered by the participants in the talk show Anderson Cooper 360: Donald Trump, CNN Milwaukee Republican Presidential Town Hall Episode. In order to establish the reliability of data, this research applied triangulation techniques.

The results of the research are as follows. (1) Only two out of four types were found in the research, they were self-initiated self-repair and other initiated self-repair. (2) Only eight out of ten patterns were found in the research including replacement, modification, abandonment, reorganization, specification, elaboration, exemplification, and rewording. In addition, the researcher also could find two other patterns in Anderson Cooper 360: Donald Trump, CNN Milwaukee Republican Presidential Town Hall Episode. They were repetition and completion. (3) In Anderson Cooper 360: Donald Trump, CNN Milwaukee Republican Presidential Town Hall Episode, there were ten factors initiating repairs i.e. changes in the discussed topic, attempt to take a floor, blank ideas, attempt to give details, emphasis on a statement, wrong choice constituent, and incorrect information delivery. Each factor which emerged in the conversation carried a certain aim that was uttered by the speakers.
