1.	Prime minister : A cyber attack? Pegasus: Yes, Prime Minister. (01:36)		Form: Interrogative in the shape of confirming that the country is under a cyber-attack. Purpose and Function : This implicature is to make sure and confirm if the country is really under a cyber-attack by the function in stating in asking a question is it true that the country network systems are being hacked. The identities of every one of our serving agents have been exposed. The purpose is to make sure what she hears			v	v		v		Pegasus is giving information to a prime minister that the country is under a cyber-attack based on the report in the middle of the night. The position is that she was just taking a pill to sleep and because recently there were problems in the country and she could not believe what just happened.	In maxim of quantity, the point to be focused on is that the information given in a conversation should be what is needed only and not more than it is necessary. It means, as long as the information covers the purpose of the conversation, the goal is reached. In the conversation, it is stated that the information given is less than it should be. The word cyber-attack is less informative and there are implied meanings in it. It also flouted the maxim of manner, because the word "a cyber-attack is not clear enough to deliver the intention from the speaker. To discover the implied meaning we have to about the problem.									understand the context that is situational context. We know from the beginning that the motion picture is about a secret agent and related to the picture showing in the frames that there are errors in the computer system then we will know that cyber-attack happening here is that someone is hacking data from the country. And seen from co-text is the text that surrounds the node, or word of interest, in the conversation.

2.	Prime Minister : Well, you'd better get someone on it and find me some answers. Pegasus : Yes, but that's the problem. We don't have		Form: The form of the implicature is declarative in the shape of giving information that the reason why he cannot get someone to fix the problems.			v	v				Pegasus tells a prime minister that the cyber-attack is on the critical moment and there is something that has to be	The implicature is flouting the maxim of quantity. It gives more information than it is necessarily needed. The sentence "they've all been outed" implied meaning can be discovered through seeing from the context

	any agents left. They've all been outed. (02.12)		Purpose and Function : This implicature is functioned to explain and report the reason why he cannot get someone to fix the problems. It is because there is no one left as the secret agent since the country network systems are being hacked. The identities of every one of our serving agents have been exposed. The purpose is to find another option because Pegasus has no idea to fix the problems.							done immediately to fix the problem. Pegasus already knows that it is impossible to hand it to agents because their secret identities have been hacked.	those are situational context and knowledge context. In a situational context, it can be known that the crucial situation is not supporting the country to use the recent secret agents to fix the problems since their identities have been exposed. And from a knowledge context, it is commonly known that secret agents' identity should not be exposed or they cannot do their job for more.
